

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

The present invention relates to clonal myeloma cell lines that have the ability to grow continuously in chemically defined media. The present invention also relates to the production of proteins in clonal myeloma cell lines and any cell lines derived therefrom.

- 5 The present invention further relates to methods for identifying cell lines capable of growing in chemically defined media.